SAYS CHURCH IS NO 'SISSY' AFFAIR

Rev. Earle Willey Asserts Religion Is for Red-blooded Men and Women.

GIVES TALK AT BANQUET

Men's Bible Class of Calvary M. E. Church Holds Its Annual Dinner.

J. L. LEVERTON.

Religion is not a "sissy" sort of affair for decrepit old men and maiden ladies, but rather is a game for red-blooded men and women of the twentieth century whose bodies pulse with the desire for activity and service, according to Rev. Earle Willey of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, who last night spoke at the sixth annual banquet of the Men's Bible Class of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, held in the edifice.

"The organized men's bible class today is performing the most important function in the church—it is directing the powerful forces of young manhood and young womanhood in the channels of human service, all for the greater glory of Jesus Christ."

He said the modern church has accomplished three great things—it has discovered the true sphere of the child, the woman, and the man. He explained that the church had found places for all three to be of service to their fellow-beings.

For Community of Interest.

"This class stands for community of interest, community of theme, and community of character," said Rev. James Sheraton, pastor of Metropolitan M. E. Church. "This class is teaching that the religion of Sunday must become the religion of Monday, that the religion of the church must become that of the street, that the religion of the pulpit must become that of the community."

K. C. Vipond, retiring president, was toastmaster. W. E. Braithwaite sang and G. S. Colson and W. Alfred Faltner entertained with clever remarks. A male chorus, composed of members of the class, gave special selections. The invocation was by Rev. John T. Ennor, business meeting presiding.

Among those who will take part in the afternoon session will be Mrs. Lida M. Marsh, Mrs. Lucetta K. Hanson, Mrs. Louise H. Earl, Miss Eleanor Walker, Mrs. C. A. Chandler, Mrs. Giles Scott, Mrs. Theresia A. Williams, and Mrs. Mary E. Brown. Mrs. Elsie Cheesman will be pianist, Mrs. Annie E. Grigsby, musical director, and Mrs. T. A. Williams, timekeeper. Luncheon will be served by the Gilbert class.

$457 IN FOR FISCAL YEAR.

Committees Will Appeal to All Property Owners in District.

The Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce committees appointed to raise money to defray the expenses of preparing facts in support of the continuance of the half-and-half financial plan yesterday announced the collection of $457.

The Board of Trade has raised $285 as the result of sending letters of appeal to members of the organization. The Chamber of Commerce committee has collected $172.

O. J. De Moll, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, announced that letters would be sent to all property owners of the District, urging them to contribute to the fund. The committee will make personal visits upon the members of the two organizations who fail to respond to the letters of appeal.

The finance committee of the joint citizens' committee in charge of the preparation of the District's case estimates that $50,000 will be needed to defray the expenses. The Columbia Heights Citizens' Association has appropriated $20.

POLICE SHAKE-UP MAY FOLLOW INVESTIGATION

Board Wants to Know Whether Members Have Reaped Profits from Uniform Contracts.

A shakeup in the personnel of the police department and the future awarding of contracts for police uniforms on a competitive basis are expected as the result of an investigation now being conducted by District authorities.

The investigation followed the discovery that since 1906 the contract for policemen's uniforms has been awarded to a Cincinnati firm on a non-competitive basis. This year two Philadelphia firms asked permission to submit bids, but were refused the privilege. It is said that the local police have been paying about $10 more for their suits than are the police in other cities.

The investigation is being conducted by a board appointed by the District Commissioners and headed by Capt. Roger G. Powell, assistant engineer commissioner. Daniel J. Donovan, deputy auditor, and Roger J. Whiteford, assistant corporation counsel, also are members.

In 1909 the corporation counsel ruled that the Commissioners had no authority to let the uniform contracts and that the superintendent of police had exclusive jurisdiction in the matter. The contracts specify that the superintendent of police shall use all efforts to insure collection of payments for uniforms. The investigation board wants to know whether any member of the police department has been receiving payment for "efforts at insuring collections."

The last contract was signed March 26 and is for one year. It was signed by Capt. Boardman, acting superintendent of police during the absence of the chief. The contract was awarded to the firm of J. L. Leighton, who has supervision of the Police Department, favors placing the contract on a competitive basis.

Sketches of Little OLD NEW YORK by G. M. McIntyre

(Special Correspondent of The Herald.)

New York, April 7.—At the age of — Elizabeth Marbury, who has been reading and selling plays for years, has gone into partnership with a man to produce a play. To aid in arriving at the significance of the blank, Miss Marbury supplies these keys: She remembers when Jim Flak was the gayest sport in Long Branch and when Oscar Hammerstein first began to like grand opera.

Hammerstein was once accused by a Broadway boulevard of pulling the stroke over for Washington in crossing the Delaware, but he indignantly denied it. His denial was so vigorous that the accused got worried and looked up the dates. The next day he wrote this note: "Dear Oscar: I was wrong. It was not with Washington. It was Noah."

Miss Marbury says there is no billion-ire behind her play. "To get money from the ultra," she says, "you've got to have something fearfully highbrow—something with ingrowing melancholia running through it and maybe smelling of carbolic acid."

"I am against the education problem plays and triangles and acute angles and all sorts of ingenious wiles, moves, and what they don't want to say or print. My show is going to be for the plain people."

DEFENSE LEAGUE IS ENLISTING AID

National Security Association Appeals to Senators and Representatives.

FOR WAR PREPARATION

Believes People Are Not Awake to Conditions of Military and Naval Establishments.

A letter received yesterday by Senators and members of Congress in Washington indicates that the National Security League intends to make an aggressive fight for national defense legislation at the approaching session of Congress.

There is no threat in the letter, but it was evident by its tone, which is signed by S. Stanwood Honkon, of New York, president of the league, that the organization is in earnest and intends to make a strong appeal for action.

The letter starts with a request that the Senators and Representatives become members of the league, the work of which, it is asserted, is "strictly non-partisan."

After appealing to the members for their support the letter says: "If unable to give your personal support we respectfully ask you for a reply expressing your position as regards our program."

In the meantime, the work of organizing branches of the American National Security League is being pushed vigorously throughout the country. A New England branch has been established with headquarters at Boston and such prominent men as the present governor of Massachusetts, the mayor of Boston, and former Secretary of the Navy George V. Meyer have become identified with it.

As soon as the organization in New England is perfected the work will be pushed westward and southward to cover the entire country.

U. S. INSISTS ON ANSWER.

Asserts that Armour Car Lines Is Common Carrier.

The government yesterday filed its brief in the case of Frederick W. Ellis, vice president of the Armour Car Lines, against the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has ordered the lines to answer questions and produce documents relating to the business of the Armour car lines propounded by the commission in the course of an investigation.

Mr. Ellis, in refusing to answer the commission's questions, took the ground that private car lines are not common carriers and therefore their operation does not come within the act regulating commerce. The government seeks to establish that the Armour car lines is a common carrier in the meaning of the act to regulate commerce and that the commission further was legally entitled to investigate the matters about which the questions which Mr. Ellis refused to answer were propounded.

362,000 NAMES HERE; ZYLMCHKISZ AMONG 'EM

Capital Has Grown as Much in Past Twelve Years as in the First 100.

It's a long way from Jacob Aaron to Martin Zylmchiksz—about 362,000 names and exactly 1,500 pages in the new city directory, just published by R. L. Folk & Co.

The 1915 edition of the directory contains a complete canvass of every nook and corner of Washington, and incidentally shows that the Capital has grown in value of real property in the last dozen years by as much as it had grown in the first 100 years of its life. The assessment for last year totaled $45,124,141.

Washington has: Two thousand, six hundred and seventy manufacturing establishments, with 16,000 employees. Six railway systems; 160 miles of street railway.

A monthly government pay roll of $2,000,000. Three hundred and sixty parks and parkways, with 2,555 acres.

Five hundred and nine miles of paved streets. Thirty-four banks. Fifty thousand telephones.

Twelve theaters. Fourteen hospitals. Forty-four hotels. Fifty-five thousand school children.

The street and avenue guide and directory of householders is again a feature of the directory.

WOMAN'S DEATH BAFFLES.

With their views on the circumstances of the death of Nellie Hill, alias Nellie Johnson, former co-defendant in the case of Dr. J. C. Ohlendorf, coroner's office and police department will put the matter before a jury to be convinced so far as the legal questions of the case are concerned.

The opinions of neither department have changed. It is assured the coroner and his deputies believe the woman, whose body was found in the vacant house at 216 C street northwest, Monday, may meet with a coroner's jury to maintain her death was the result of an unfortunate accident.

There have been no new developments in the case, even as to the setting of the date for the inquest.

RESERVE BOARD PLANS FOR GOLD FUND HERE

Regional Banks to Maintain Basis for System of Clearances in Treasury. It Is Announced.

The Federal Reserve Board has approved in principle a plan for the establishment of a gold fund in the Treasury Department by the regional banks as the basis for a system of clearances.

A statement issued by the board yesterday said the plan probably will become operative some time in May.

The board's statement divulges little regarding the plan beyond the fact that it involves the creation of a central gold fund to be drawn against by various reserve banks in proportion to the share maintained in the fund by each bank.

The fund would remain permanently in Washington.
